

Lester Pearson Will Kick Off MCWA With Speed Tonight

The Staff Of Life

— Charles Kinghorn

Last night Ukrainian Week was opened for the seventh consecutive year. Shown is Theresa Dolenga making last minute arrangements in the display being held in the Walter M. Stewart Room. This display, which will be there until tomorrow from 10 AM to 10 PM, contains various samples of the Ukrainian culture including paintings, handicrafts, and Easter eggs.

Lester B. Pearson is scheduled to deliver the opening address to MCWA delegates tonight in Redpath Hall, officially commencing the conference. The Leader of the opposition will discuss the topic of this year's conference: "Afro-Asia, the Problems of Underdeveloped Countries."

This will be McGill's third annual conference, with delegates arriving from Canadian and American universities for four days of round-table discussions and panel debates. In addition to the regular debates and discussions which have become a feature of past conferences, delegates will have the opportunity of hearing views and ideas of the distinguished international statesmen who will speak at the evening sessions and banquets.

These evening plenary sessions are open to the students of McGill and to the general public free of charge but tickets must be obtained from the Union Box-office and from McGill Annual sales girls.

ROUND TABLES

In addition to the plenary sessions, panel discussions, and keynote speeches, the Conference will devote two full days to an intensive series of eight round-table discussions between delegates, which will be chaired by members of the McGill Faculty, Professors I. PAL, I. Brecher, and M. Oliver, and representatives from the Department of External Affairs.

It is in these sessions that the main work of the Conference will be done, as students from North America exchange ideas on the conference topic with their counterparts from Africa, Asia, and the Middle East.

CONFERENCE EXECUTIVE

The Executive of the Conference under Stuart L. Smith, a medical student, has prepared for what is hoped will prove to be an even more successful Conference than last year's. Included among the delegates are representatives from several national associations at McGill and nearby universities. This year, too, for the first time, delegates have been requested to submit papers on a set list of topics which will be presented at the round-table discussions and form the basis for deliberation. To aid them in their preparation for the Conference delegates have been provided with select bibliographies dealing with the topic.

The present Conference deals with a broad and vital field. As the MCWA Chairman, Stuart Smith, phrased it: "In relations of Afro-Asian nations, both colonial and emergent, to the economic, social, and political problems that beset them, is mirrored the face of the world tomorrow."

SPEAKERS

The speakers at the various sessions will include Dr. Arthur Smithies, from Harvard, Edward A. Gross, former assistant-Secretary of State, Robert Good, expert on U.S. African policy, and J.N. Sahni, vice-president of the World Federation of the U.N. and member of the Indian Delegation to the U.N. Sir Leslie Munro, renowned Commonwealth statesman and New Zealand's Ambassador to the United States and permanent delegate to the U.N., will address the delegates in Redpath Hall, following a final luncheon banquet.

Andrew Cordier, Senior Under Secretary of the U.N. and Dr. Hans J. Morgenthau of the University of Chicago, were withdrawn as speakers at the last minute.

FINANCES

The Conference is being financially sponsored by the SEC and various Montreal businessmen who have co-operated with MCWA officials to a great extent. This financial assistance enables the Conference to pay up to one half of the delegates travelling expenses and their food and accommodations while in Montreal.

The first McGill Conference on World Affairs was held three years ago in November. Patterned after similar Conferences at West Point and Texas A and M, the first one was the successful brain-child of a group of McGill Law students, who recognized the need for such a gathering of interested students in a country where the problems of student communication and exchange of ideas are considerable owing to distance.

INITIAL CONFERENCE

The initial Conference brought delegates from twenty-six Canadian universities to discuss various aspects of Canadian foreign policy. Last year's Conference, which included a number of American delegates dealt with the delicate question of Canadian-American relations.

The forthcoming Conference moves from this continent to a broader and perhaps more vital field. There can be no doubt of the importance of discussing the problems faced by underdeveloped countries.

The third annual McGill Conference on World Affairs hopes at least to trace the substance of these problems.

Blood Is Rewarded With Beer

A free case of beer, courtesy of a local brewery, will be presented at 8 o'clock this evening to each men's fraternity that obtained a 100% turnout in last month's Blood Donor Clinic. The presentation will take place in the Union Board Room, with members of the Committee and campus dignitaries attending.

Trophies, plaques, and other awards will be presented at this evening's ceremony to the winners of the various competitions that were conducted in connection with the Blood Drive. A Commerce representative will be on hand to pick up Bloody Mary for the fourth consecutive year, and Social Work will be awarded Bloody Boris, emblematic of blood supremacy in the graduate faculties. Wilson Hall will receive the plaque won in competition with Douglas Hall, and Diocesan College will be awarded the plaque which it gained over United Theological College and Presbyterian College. The Mathematics Society will walk off with the inter-club trophy.

The men's inter-fraternity and women's inter-fraternity trophies will go to Kappa Rho and Alpha Gamma Delta, respectively. The male fraternities slated to receive a case of beer are Alpha Delta Phi, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Kappa Alpha, Kappa Rho Tau, Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Gamma Delta, Phi Kappa Pi, Psi Upsilon, Sigma Alpha Mu, Tau Epsilon Phi and Zeta Beta Tau.

The Blood Drive Committee reminded all the above fraternities, residences, and organizations to have a representative on hand at the Union tonight at 8 pm, to receive their trophy or award.

Nineteen Candidates To Contest Eight Positions

Almost twice as many candidates as last year have been nominated to contest posts as faculty representatives to the Students' Executive Council. In all, nineteen persons are vying for eight Council positions, with three members being acclaimed to fill the others. Last year five seats were acclaimed and only ten persons contested the remaining six offices.

Commenting on the deluge of nominations, a retiring S.E.C. member told the Daily this was a direct result of a new interest by McGill students in the campus government. He expected a larger turnout in the November 26 elections as further proof of what he termed "renewed student vigor".

Candidates for the faculty of Arts and Science (2 to be elected) are Irwin Cotler, Gael Eakin, Gordon Echenberg, George Fisk, Diane Kromp and D'Arcy Lee. In Engineering the nominees (2 to be elected) are Jack Nowiki, Sol Polatshek and Jack Utsal. In the other faculties one candidate is to be elected. Contesting the post of Architecture representative are John Duvernet, Louis Pretty, and Moshe Safdie. In the Law Faculty, Murray Greenwood and Norman May are opponents in the race for election, and in Commerce Ed Bierbrier and Marian MacDougall are the nominees. Elected by acclamation are Charles Oyer in Dentistry, Ray Simser in Phys-Ed, Physio, and Graduate Nurses, and Martin Rumscheldt in Music and Divinity.

Photos, platforms and pen-sketches should be addressed to the News Editor, McGill Daily, and must be handed in to George at the Union Tuckshop no later than 1 pm, Friday, November 21.

Queen Contest

In yesterday's Daily it was stated that nominees for the Engineer's Fall Informal Queen Contest must be in 3rd or 4th year. This should have read 2nd or 3rd year. Nominations close at 5 pm, Thursday, November 19.

A Double Standard?

Ever since the current Prime Minister was first elected to the House of Commons back in 1940, he has been zealously propounding such cherished ideals as individual liberty and human freedom. During the last two election campaigns, Mr. Diefenbaker preached this Gospel from coast to coast. True to his promise he introduced a bill to this end last year.

Last week in the Political Committee of the United Nations a resolution was proposed condemning the policy of apartheid (racial segregation) pursued by the South African Government. When a vote was taken Canada abstained. Apparently the abstention was based on a reluctance to interfere in the internal affairs of another state. Whether this was the real reason or whether Canada was simply avoiding conflict within the Commonwealth is difficult to say. Unnecessary to say, too.

Unnecessary to say because in the eyes of the world Canada is a leading symbol of tolerance. When this country, in the limelight of a World Forum refuses to express her disapproval of deplorable racist policies, those who look up to Canada have been let down.

Perhaps this is an indication that Her Majesty's Canadian Government is incapable of bearing the Cross of morality that its leader has hewn for it. If this is so, the government has two choices: it must either refrain from condoning intolerance abroad or admit to a compromising hypocrisy. It seems that the government has not chosen the former.

The New Face of MCWA

The McGill Conference on World Affairs was born three years ago — and it was an expensive baby! The past two conferences cost McGill students in the vicinity of $5000 each year and the benefits derived by the student populace as a whole were practically nil.

This year the MCWA executive has performed a minor miracle. While most other organizations presented increased budgets, MCWA has decreased by more than half its cost to the SEC. At the same time, and even more surprising is the fact that the scope of the conference has been enlarged over the years.

"The Problems of Underdeveloped Countries" are the problems of every country in the world. The topic is broad enough so that no matter which university a student is representing, he has something to gain from this conference.

The list of speakers and discussion chairmen is an impressive one, including such well-known figures as the Hon. Lester B. Pearson, leader of the Liberal party, Sir Leslie Munro, president of the 12th General Assembly of the U.N., and Dr. Arthur Smithies, Professor of Political Economy at Harvard University.

Where as in previous years, McGill students were admitted to only a limited number of MCWA events, this year the executive has arranged to have as many sessions as possible open to all students, whether or not they are official delegates. Larger rooms have been obtained for the round table discussions. The give-and-take of these informal groups is the real meat of the conference, and students are urged to take advantage of this unique opportunity to broaden their understanding of the problems plaguing the countries of Africa and Asia.

Besides the famous speakers who are guest of MCWA, some one hundred students from universities across Canada and the U.S. are visiting McGill. McGillians should not by-pass the chance of meeting their confreres and hearing their views.

On behalf of the McGill students we should like to welcome all the MCWA delegates and we sincerely hope that this conference will prove to be profitable as well as enjoyable.

Whither Afro-Asia?

by SADAT KAZI

The broad and vast arc that stretches from the West Coast of Africa to the Western reaches of the Pacific embraces some forty countries with a total population of over 1.5 billion. The people who inhabit this arc are the descendants of the world's oldest civilizations and cultures. This region is the birthplace of all the great religions on earth. Here one encounters almost every political faith known under the sun — Democracy, Dictatorship, Monarchism and Theocracy, etc., with innumerable variations. Every economic doctrine — Socialism, Communism, or Capitalism, in all their manifold variations and combinations — is practised in this part of the globe.

Our age is marked by the advent of self-determination and the retreat of colonialism. As the great wave of nationalism is surging across Asia and Africa, and as the old empires dissolve, new sovereign and independent nations are born. These new nations of Africa and Asia, whose voices, till World War II, were mute in the world council, are exercising great influence in the arena of world politics. The Bandung Conference of 1955 greatly contributed to focusing attention upon problems and potentialities of Afro-Asian countries and to enhance their influence in the comity of nations.

The countries of Asia and Africa cannot regard themselves as a group apart. Their problems, their destiny, and their aspirations are inevitably bound up with those of the rest of the world. Whenever the people think of Asia and Africa, they think of political unrest, poverty, illiteracy and chronic diseases. The primary responsibility to uplift these people from the depth of sub-human conditions rests with them and their governments. They must, as they are doing, organize their economic resources and accelerate the pace of industrial developments. They can look forward to friendly, experienced and advanced countries only for partial help so that these new nations can help themselves. And economically advanced countries are aware of the fact that poverty in one country is a threat to prosperity in another.

"Are the peoples of the Afro-Asian countries prepared for self-government and equipped to handle their problems?" The answer is YES. An inefficient self-government is much better than an efficient but alien government. People work harder, learn faster, under the guidance of their own government than under the dictates of a "Mother" country. After some 200 years of schooling Algeria, the French claim, is not yet ready for independence. Even after a thousand years, France will repeat the same old joke! Speaking at the Bandung Conference, Mr. Nehru said: Asia today does not tolerate things which it has tolerated for so long. Asia is dynamic; Asia is alive, full of life: Asia will make mistakes, has made mistakes, but it does not matter so long as life is there. There will be mistakes, some chaos and confusion. But this is inevitable in a transitional period. The western democratic nations must look at their own past history. Let us not forget that several centuries have elapsed between Magna Charta and the bipartisan cooperation of British Conservatives and Laborites!

The United States of America went to the extent of a civil war after they achieved their independence. France, an advanced country, narrowly escaped from a civil war only last year! Moreover, it is unfair to expect that every nation, regardless of its historical experience, internal difficulties, and economic development, must copy blindly the Western democratic system, or else be labelled totalitarian. Parliamentary democracy, a concept imported from the West to Asia and Africa, cannot be expected to function smoothly in a transitional period.

It is unfortunate that many Westerners mistakenly consider that the peoples of Afro-Asia are basically anti-west in sentiment. Afro-Asian people have suffered from colonialism and naturally they detest and are bitter about it. But colonialism and the average people of the West are not synonymous. Furthermore, with time, the bitter memory and racial ignorance will wither away and the friendship and cooperation between the West and Afro-Asian countries that is now gradually growing will further increase.

I was surprised and also very much pleased to see that the people of Canada, the United States, or Great Britain for that matter, are no more imperialist than myself! We cannot ignore the fact that a large segment of the Western people have exerted pressure on colonial governments to grant independence to African and Asian countries.

We like Western people, we admire their liberal democratic system and we consider them our friends. We gratefully acknowledge the enormous help they are so generously giving to our countries in the form of money, material and technical assistance. The cordial friendship between the Western and Afro-Asian people is indispensable for peace, for mutual survival and for flourishing democracy itself. It is vitally important that we understand each others' point of view because we have reached a stage where one cannot live without the other. Yet, human nature being what it is, there are differences among peoples and nations and unfortunately such differences will continue. But let us not differ in our devotion to the cause of peace, to the cause of humanity, freedom, equality, human right and social justice.

McGill Law Students Join New 2,000 Member Group

Over 2,000 law students were represented at a weekend conference at Queen's University which met to form an association to encourage closer co-operation between law students.

The Eastern Canadian and Central Canadian Association of Law Students was formed by delegates from the Universities of Toronto, McGill, Western, Sherbrooke, Queen's, New Brunswick, Ottawa and Osgoode Hall. The western Canadian universities have their own association.

A constitutional committee made up of University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall students was set up at the meeting. The organization also decided to sponsor inter-school moot courts. They hope to set up a system for exchanges of professors among member universities.

The association held a banquet Saturday night and guest speaker was Professor J. A. Carry, vice-principal of Queen's University.

The convention next fall will be held at the University of New Brunswick and accordingly the National Executive will be made up of students from this university.

Players To Present 'Epitaph'

The Players' Club of McGill University will present the controversial play, "Epitaph for George Dillon", by the brilliant young British playwright, John Osborne, in collaboration with Anthony Creighton.

This interesting example of early Osborne attempts to show the many problems surrounding a would-be dramatist and actor. This was the first successful play to be written by Osborne, but it was not produced until long after the famous "Look Back in Anger" and "The Entertainer". "Epitaph for George Dillon" won considerable fame on both the London and New York stages.

This will be the Canadian Premiere of "George Dillon" in English. The play is directed by Miss Roberta Beatty and produced by Peter Wigram, with lighting designed by Ken Withers. Dan Baran, President of the Club, will play the part of George Dillon. Other players are Shirley Harrison, Mary Miller, Joanna Pettit, Stuart Ponte, Michelle Beaussang, Ian Heron, Brian Lawrence and Page Fairchild.

The play will be presented 'in the round' in the McGill Union Box Office. $1.50.

THE WAA AND FRATERNITIES

Intramural competition draws entrants as representatives from faculties, fraternities and residences.

Any student who plays intramural sports must represent one of these. Three representative committees — the faculty representative committee, fraternity representative committee and residence representative committee meet independently of each other.

The chairmen of these committees are members of the Executive Council and the Athletic Council, the three being entitled to a vote. Therefore, these chairmen, along with the Secretary, Treasurer, etc., have equal power in policy making decisions concerning the WAA.

Any decision of policy, must in turn, be ratified by the Women's Athletic Board, composed of the Dean of Women (chairman) the Chairman of Physical Education, Athletics and Recreation for Women (vice-chairman), and members appointed by the Senate, the Graduates' Society and the undergraduates.

RECOGNITION?

Somewhere along the line we were told that women's fraternities are not recognized by the University (see Panhellenic article, McGill Daily, September 24, page 3). Why then the inconsistency? Why is a fraternity Representatives Committee an integral group of the Athletic Association which is in turn responsible to the university?

We understand that one of the aims of the WAA is to promote as much enthusiasm and interest in athletics as is possible. Cultivating this through fraternities may be a fine thing. But how may fraternities have been able to field a complete team, let us say, in basketball, volleyball and hockey? Even where there is a fraternity represented it is usually combined with a faculty to read XXX-Arts.

Why do fraternity representatives comprise a separate committee of the WAA? Most, if not all the fraternities, have members on the WAA councils and committees. We can be assured that these students, as members of the WAA would promote sports to the best of their ability, including in their fraternity.

If the university is not to recognize women's fraternities, let them be consistent about it. And should students wish to compete in athletics on an inter-fraternity level, surely Panhel could step in and form an inter-fraternity volleyball, basketball, hockey league, etc.

THE WAA OPEN MEETING

What an apathetic group of girls on the campus! Twice a year the WAA opens its doors to the campus, and twice a year a puny group of 50 or so walk through them! Exactly fifty-four were present at yesterday's meeting, more than half from the WAA executive and councils. The meeting was planned at lunch hour, so that as many girls as possible could attend. Cokes were served to wash down lunches which were permitted into the RCV lounge. Are students not interested in open meetings? Are students simply not keen about athletics? This year for the first time in many, many years, the WAA was unable to send an archery team to the intercollegiate tournament. Only four archerettes, alas! This year McGill will be entering only two teams in the Women's Open Basketball League as compared to three during the past couple of years. We hate to announce the rest of the grim figures such as the number of students that participated in the intramural golf tournament, and synchronized swim meet.

Today sees the start of the hockey season for our femmes. Let's start off on the right foot by coming out and making this sport as successful as possible. You needn't be an expert on the ice lanes — as long as you can stand up on your own two feet (on skates) you'll be a fine addition to the Club.

SKI SCHOOL

The Department of Physical Education for Women is again holding a Ski School at Ste. Adele en Haut beginning Saturday, January 2, 1960 through Wednesday, January 6 inclusive. The approximate cost of accommodation, meals and lessons is $30.00. Two requirements are asked of prospective skiers in the Ski School — Interest in skiing or learning to ski and attendance at the WAA Ski Conditioning exercises now being held on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday in the RVC gymnasium from 1:30-1:50 pm.

Since the enrolment is limited, an application must be made at the Physical Education Office (Main floor left) RVC. Upperclassmen will be given first consideration.

The McGill Women's Ski Team and Physical Education students are ineligible.

Aqua-stars Prep For Intercollegiate Tourney

by CECILE KALIFON

Nine of McGill's best aqua-stars will splash away this weekend for the intercollegiate swimming laurels. The University of Western Ontario will play host to three universities in the meet, McGill, Toronto and Queens'.

Pauline McCullagh, a veteran diving and fancy swimmer, will do the diving chores along with Dorothy Roll, a newcomer to the university. In addition, McCullagh will perform a synchronized solo and the basic skills as well as competing in the 200 yard freestyle.

SYNCHRONIZED STROKE?

As part of the synchronized meet, Sally Boyd, well-known aquamaid from many a water-show along with Janet Savage will pool their talents in the pool with a duet. Sally Boyd has, in addition, the duty of performing the basic skills in the meet.

In the speed races, Nancy Hankin has been elected to splash down the water lanes in the 50 yard breaststroke and will as well combine her efforts with several other swimming femmes in the 200 yard medley relay. Sue Armocost, an excellent "butterflyer", will rowboat down the pool with her wings for fifty yards only, while Jane Walker, President of McGill's Swim Club, will go a little farther with a splash streak of 75 yards in the individual medley. Shirley Szeklik, who has been making herself felt in swimming circles will compete in the fifty yard breaststroke.

Heather Brooks-Hill, will have the honour of participating in both relays, as well, as doing a 50 yard race in the free-style. Nancy Reid, one of the new cheerleaderettes this year, will participate in the 200 yard free-style relay and the 100 yard free-style.

Coaching the swimming team is Miss G. Dubrule who has been doing an excellent job of rounding the team into excellent shape.

Liz McMillan (speed) and Bertha Kalifon (synchronized) are the managers.

BASKET BALL

The Basketball season is now drawing to a close with two final intramural games scheduled this week. On Wednesday, November 18 at 7:30 pm. Arts plays Physio and on Thursday at 8 pm Arts battles Phys Ed. The trophy will be presented to the champs at the WAA closing Banquet in March.

Last Thursday Science-DG won over AGD by a default; KKG-Commerce defeated Meds by 7-5; while Phys. Ed. edged out RVC by a score of 16-8.

The two games played were real thrillers. The game between RVC and Phys. Ed. was all tied up at half time and considering that RVC had no substitutes the team put on a remarkably good show. It seems that Meds were battling against fate, as they lost their game by actually scoring against themselves.

After the close of the Intramural season Intercity games will commence, with the next practice on Wednesday, November 18.

VOLLEYBALL

Volley ball finals saw Phys Ed. the defending champions take top spot over RVC in a two-game series.

At half time in the finals game the two teams were tied with 8 points apiece. Then the RVC defense seemed to collapse and Phys Ed went on to win 15-8.

The second game was a closely contested battle right down to the finish. RVC displayed a tightly knit offense and defense which was reflected in a half-time 7-5 score. At that point Phys. Ed. gradually began to take over the spotlight and the game ended 15-10 in favour of Phys. Ed.

Stars for RVC were Isabelle and Sandy Lanzman, while tops for the Phys Ed team were Corie Oomen, Ann Hewitt and Pat Orser.

Intercollegiate Volleyball will now hold the limelight. Practices will be held on Wednesday nights in the Currie Gym at 7:30 pm.

Dear Diary...

As I take my pen in hand, I take my bottle of Coke in the other hand! Yes, dear diary, where would I be without Coca-Cola? Just a social outcast. Why, everybody drinks Coke! John and Bill and Barry and Charley. Horace too. Confidentially, I think I'll have another bottle of Coke.
